August 2020

Beloved KMBC,

Years ago, we loaded up our family and headed to Orlando. There we made our way to Disney World. Our kids were young and Kim and myself were as well, or younger! We rode the ride. It's this little boat you take along the winding channel of a brightly colored canal.

You are surrounded on all sides by singing dolls representing children from all over the world. You have Japanese children, Hispanic children, African children with all dressed in their respective local dressings. No matter which part of the world they were from each of them were singing the same refrain: "It's a small world, after all." It went over and over and over again.

And it's cute - for a while. But after the fifty-third chorus of that little song, I wanted to dock and get off and head to something bigger.

The Lord has called each of us to something bigger. This Coronavirus has hemmed us in and made us restless for more. But I hope and pray that it is not for more earth-stuff to try and stuff our souls and keep our minds off of eternity. The busier you are in your world it may feel like a small, small world.

God is calling us to something larger, wider, and lasting. If you're ready to break out into a larger, more significant future, then be obsessed with the heart of God. He will lead you to a life that is far surpassing than this old world. If you are tired of the status quo that you are living in then, friend, God has something for you that is far greater than the greatness of this world.

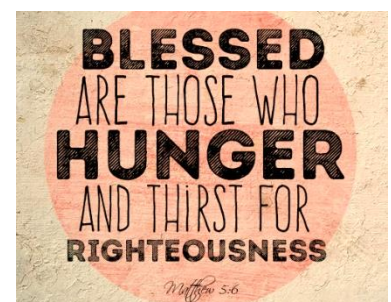

This pandemic is setting us up for something greater and more satisfying than we could ever span. God is humbling us, causing us to hunger and then feeding us with manna from above, "which neither you nor your fathers had known" (Deuteronomy 8).

God has made us hungry for His powerful work He wants to bring into our lives. Those who are spiritually full and satisfied may never taste the "manna" He has for those who are hungry. Mary, the chosen mother of Jesus, she concluded that "he has filled the hunger with good things" (Luke 1:53). There is in a healthy Jesus-follower this incurable restlessness, this holy hunger for the rest of what God wants to give to us.

Restlessness that God produces in us usually precedes a powerful touch of God on a person's life. God has made you hungry so He can feed you with something much bigger, something more "filling."

Praise God for His Spiritual Summons,

Pastor Don
