Facing The Future

Dear Kinnett,

It was Sunday the 23rd that I shared a few things about the time at hand. I expressed some maxims that concern me.

Number one is the fact that the Son of God said that we are to "Make disciples and teach them whatever things I have taught you" (Matthew 28:18-20). Jesus said that all authority was given to Him in Heaven and on Earth. That authority has been given to us to make disciples. This is not a suppose we can, but it is what we should be doing.

Small groups, reading books, doing church stuff, all in and of itself is fine, but to miss the core mission of the local church of making disciples is missing the mark of Jesus' last words.

Number two is that we are looking to the future and well-being of Kinnett by praying and searching the heart of God for an associate pastor who would come in and work side by side with me and the membership in developing students, parents, discipling, reaching, teaching, and ministering.

In today's economy it is only fair that we look at our finances as a church. I'm sixty-five as I told everyone Sunday evening and I'm still slapping the floor and ready to go. Yet with God's vision and mission for Kinnett, that's you for others, then we need to go forward with someone to come in and to pay them well so they will not struggle as a family.

Would you take seriously these words and would you pray about these words and ask God to give you passion, vision, and mission. Our days are to count and what counts costs and what costs counts.

I love each of you!

Pastor Don
